Love was in the air...

... at Kensington Palace's Orangery last week, where Zafferano produced a glorious Spring wedding. The bride and groom, self-confessed foodies, worked closely with Zafferano's Executive chef Jonathan Gilbert to produce a show-stopping four course Italian supper. Deep-fried baby artichokes dressed with sea salt and lemon were piled high in earthenware bowls, and the season's first white asparagus was wrapped in Prosciutto San Daniele.

Our charming waiters in crisp white Nehru jackets served vintage Billecart-Salmon and zesty home-made Sicilian lemonade. Guests then dined on Panzanella with truffled burrata, followed by marinated, grilled leg of Spring lamb with minted pesto.

pudding was the wedding cake - the most perfect Croque-en-Bouche designed and built by our own chef team! Italian cheeses (Capretta di Toscana, Pecorino sardo canestrato, Scimudin and Taleggio) followed, served with mostarda di frutta, rosehip and truffled honeys. Finally, coffee with homemade Florentines and Sienese Panforte served on tiered cake stands rounded off a spectacular feast al modo italiano.

Did you know about Apartment 1a?

Zafferano is delighted to announce that for a limited time only, Apartment 1a at Kensington Palace, formerly the private residence of Princess Margaret and her husband Lord Snowden, will be available for private events. A personal guide is also available to give guests an insight into the fascinating history of the palace and the people who lived here.
